

Iowa's County Conservation System

Why County Conservation Matters Since 1955

Building on the historic successes of acquiring, developing, and making available county parks, preserves, playgrounds, forests, wildlife, and other conservation areas; promoting and preserving the health and general welfare of the people; encouraging the orderly development and conservation of natural resources; and cultivating quality of life by providing programs of public recreation and outdoor conservation education.

WEAVING THE FABRIC OF A STATEWIDE NETWORK

ICCS, along with many of our professional county conservation staff are key assets to an integrated network of public & private partnerships and stakeholder organizations. County Conservation leadership is provided by listening to our members, patrons and supporters – and responding in a timely, responsible and skillful manner. Our joint successes have cemented our resolve to continue. We know that we don't have to do this by ourselves.

ONE INCREDIBLE INFRASTRUCTURE

Along the way, these first 66 years – our county conservation program has grown exponentially. Public use and service facilities now account for $1.25 Billion in collective statewide assets. (excluding land) Including: 75 visitor/nature centers, 464 shop/service buildings, 675 pedestrian bridges, 415 dams, 349 playgrounds, 154 shower houses, 100 office buildings, 764 shelters, 496 fishing piers/docks, 250+ camping cabins, 725 restrooms, etc.

Counties are the driving force in naturally connecting communities via land & water trail systems. Maintaining this infrastructure will be a challenge in the years ahead.

THE WINNING FORMULA FOR 66 YEARS OF SUCCESS

Local Control, Local Ownership, Local Funding & Support, Local Partnerships

A majority vote of the people at a general election in each county was required to establish their local county conservation board. In many cases, these majorities were well in excess of 75%. From those beginnings – the success of each CCB has been locally generated and driven. And collectively, since 1959 - the Iowa Association of County Conservation Boards (IACCB) has flourished with the support of these 99 partnerships. Our statewide footprint is important to the future of Iowa!

It's hard to imagine where Iowa would be without county conservation – thousands of acres would still be unprotected, once-in-a-lifetime opportunities would have been missed, and those bridges we have collectively built for others to follow would be far shorter and fewer.

The Mission of IACCB – To promote the objectives and supplement the activities of conservation boards, provide information networking, to assist boards and members in program development, to promote and market Iowa's County Conservation System, to foster board member & staff education, and to provide a unified voice in the Iowa legislature.
